SCHOOL BOND QUESTION.

The Schools Fire Traps.
The Sun:
Just a word or two about school bonds.
I can't say why anyone can oppose the issue, for it has been plainly shown the finances of the board are in a deplorable condition; and the school is in a deplorable condition; and the board need quick relief. It has been shown what disposition is to be made of the money, and also that there can be no increase over our present rate, so, I for one, shall take your advice, and "vote for the children." A good education is about all we can give them at the city's expense, so, for the best it is possible to give them.

It is strange to me that some opponents to the issue say "Let the council take care of the deficit, and give the board the necessary money to repair the buildings that need it." If they will stop and think they will agree with me that it is better to issue the bonds and let the coming generation pay some of the debt. Surely it will be deriving much of the benefit.

Let any one opposing the bond issue visit the schools and see just what they need. There are several of them that are nothing but fire traps in addition to being breeding places of disease, as has been clearly shown. Suppose, for instance, a fire should break out in the Washington building or any of the crowded buildings. How many children do you think would lose their lives, or be crippled for life? Just think that, and take it home for reflection.

A parent would have grounds for damages against the city in the event a child should lose its life in a fire in one of these buildings, but what amount of money can compensate for the loss of one life?

ONE INTERESTED.

Let the Mayor "Run" the Schools.
The Sun:

It is strange the arguments the opponents of the bond issue for the schools are using. I heard one man say "I am against the bond issue, it is just a scheme of the Republicans." They told us "Jim" Smith was going to do wonders, now let him run the schools like the Democrats have. They ran them on the money they always got, so it is up to the Republicans to do the same.

I can cite you to numerous other arguments just as absurd, and I want to say to the friends of better schools that they must be up and working hard for the bonds, as the ignorance of the average voter on the question is simply amazing. The indifference of others is equally so, and it is deplorable.

So, let every man, woman and child who is for the issue make it his or her duty to put in all the time possible between now and Tuesday and enlighten our dense friends on the needs of our schools.

Tomorrow's Meeting.

For one of the final discussions of the bond issue for the public schools a public men's meeting will be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the city hall. The issue will be up for general discussion, and every citizen is invited to attend, whether he is in favor of the bonds or not. There will be plenty of speakers to discuss the bonds.

OKLAHOMA BANKS ALREADY SHOWING GUARANTY FAULT

Town of Thousand Has Four Banks Some Paying 6 Per Cent on Deposits.

Town at 150 Has Two Struggling Banks.

STATE CAN NOT LIMIT THEM FOR AN EDUCATIONAL CENTER

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 29.—According to O. E. Greelan, president of the First National bank of McCloud, Okla., the political economists who have discussed the bank guaranty plan from a theoretical standpoint, have made inadequate forecasts of the bad feature, which the scheme has actually developed in the course of its short trial in this state.

"Our so-called state guaranty law," declares Mr. Greelan, "is, in my opinion, the most vicious ever enacted by a state legislature. One of the worst effects conspicuously apparent is the fact that new state banks are being chartered at an alarm rate, and we all know that there are already entirely too many banks in the state.

"More than fifty new banks have been started in Oklahoma since Jan. 1, 1908, and many of them, to my personal knowledge, will be managed by inexperienced, incompetent, would-be bankers, who imagine that under the guaranty law banking will be simply a snap."

"There is no denying that, in the eyes of the average depositor, right at the present moment, the guaranty scheme looks good; it is popular with depositors, for the depositor feels he is relieved of all responsibility in selecting his banker. What is the inevitable result? That the would-be banker has the advantage over the substantial, conservative banker, who has spent the best years of his life building up a solid institution.

"The little village of Harrah, five miles from here, with a population of something like 150 people—all it is likely to have for some years to come—now has two banks, with total local deposits of less than $15,000. One of these banks was recently organized under the guaranty law and may legitimately be regarded as a child of that enactment.

"Right here I might state that last fall the older of the two banks was hard pushed and that I came to its rescue and at least helped to keep it going. But now they are 'guaranteed' and in the eyes of many depositors they are perhaps stronger than my bank. The fact is they have been paying 6 per cent on time deposits—and paying that as a normal rate to some of our own customers.

"I cite this instance of the situation in the little town of Harrah, with its 150 inhabitants and its two banks, not because of any personal feeling I have in the matter, but simply because it shows definitely and conclusively the extent to which the Oklahoma guaranty law is hatching more banks than the state has any earthly need of or use for, and also because it puts clearly before the eyes of every fair man the fact that the law is actually stimulating the payment of interest in order to attract deposits.

Aimed to Pay 6 Per Cent on Deposits.
"If you think that any bank can afford to pay 6 per cent interest on time deposits without taking rash and indefensible chances with the money of the depositors, then refer the proposition to any banker or set of bankers anywhere in America outside of Oklahoma. You will get but one answer, and that is that the proposition is absurd and impossible.

"Not far from here is another town of about 1,000 inhabitants, which has four banks—two of which have been organized since the enactment of the guaranty law. That a town of only 1,000 inhabitants can maintain more than two healthy banks is an absurdity on the face of it, but this absurdity is emphasized by the fact that the total deposits of the four banks altogether are less than $100,000. It is not too much to say that this kind of thing is going on all over the state, and that, plainly by reason of the guaranty law, Oklahoma is being overbanked to the point of alarming rate."

In this connection it should be pointed out that the state administration has been directly responsible for at least those members of the legislature who have enacted the guaranty law.

MANY SPEAKERS TALK ABOUT BOND ISSUE QUESTION

Interesting Meeting at Washington School Building Held Yesterday Afternoon.

Hal Corbett talks on Paducah's Advantages.

FOR AN EDUCATIONAL CENTER

MEETINGS TOMORROW.
2:30 at Whittier Building.
7:30 at City Hall.

Musical program and speeches at both places. Public invited, and both sides may be heard.

One of the best issue meetings yet held was that at the Washington building yesterday afternoon. Miss Helen Lowry presided and Mr. Hal Corbett was the principal speaker. He discussed Paducah's location and natural advantages, dwelling particularly on her distance from larger cities and educational institutions. He said Paducah is the metropolis of a wide territory and has four navigable rivers within reach all giving her exceptional commercial advantages. Two things have prevented her taking the rank to which she is entitled. One of them is a fact that is always against everything that would advance the interests of the city, either through personal dislike of someone furthering the cause, jealousy, suspicion or fear of advancing a dollar. The other is a failure of Paducah to become an educational center of the territory, as Lexington and Nashville have done.

W. J. Hill of the school board, briefly outlined the condition of the public schools when he entered office, the need of sanitary improvements and of equipment, and the shortage of teaching force. He said it was necessary to use some of the money the board intended for the pay of teachers to meet emergency repairs in building and the lack of repairs. Part of the money would be used to replace the $20,000.

Hon. Charles K. Wheeler, Mr. Earl Palmer, Mr. Sol Dreyfus, Mr. J. K. Ferguson, Prof. J. M. Ragdale, Mr. Joseph Gardner and Prof. Suzz spoke in favor of the bond issue.

FRONTIER METHOD IS ADOPTED BY CHICAGO PEOPLE

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Operations of burglars have become so bold and police are so ineffective, a vigilance committee of 100 members was formed to suppress robbers. All the vigilantes are victims and are sure to push the crusade. The committee will offer a reward to the police who capture and convict the thieves.

Sues Street Paving Company.
City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., filed suit today for the city against the Southern Bluthill company to recover $900 on the bond the company gave the city while repairing Kentucky avenue. Miss Marian Landis sued the city and the contractor for damages and secured judgment. The city paid its share, and now sues the construction company to remunerate the city.

Candidates Courting Trouble.
Trouble may be in store for some of the candidates in the primary, as well as some of the merchants, by a violation of the postal laws in placing advertisements in rural route boxes without paying postage. As the candidates roam through the country it has been the custom to drop in a card in the farmers' mail boxes. One or two merchants have been guilty of this, and a heavy penalty is prescribed by the laws for dropping cards in the boxes without placing postage on the cards. The rural route inspectors on all of the routes found the cards and confiscated them.

New England Poet Dies

Mass., Oct. 29.—John W. Watson, octogenarian poet, was found dead in his room from apoplexy. He was apparently awake and talking to the door, but was unable to get out. He was a great admirer of the poet, and was known for his abolitionist views.

CAIRO TRAIN KILLS AGED MAN AT ROWLANDTOWN CROSSING RUNNING IN THIS MORNING

Pilot Beam Strikes T. J. Spidell and He Dies From Injuries After Being Brought Into City on Train.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN AND A FORMER TOLLGATE KEEPER—HAD LIVED IN PADUCAH HALF CENTURY.

Deafness Prevented His Hearing Engine Whistle and Engineer Tried to Prevent Accident But Could Not.

Falling to hear the warning sounded by Engineer William Burch of the Cairo passenger train early this morning, Thomas J. Spidell, an aged and well known citizen of Rowlandtown, stepped almost directly in front of the engine and fatally injured, dying an hour later at the railroad hospital, where he had been carried.

Mr. Spidell was standing in a few feet of the track at the point, where the railroad crosses the Cairo road near the Terrell distillery, and was apparently aware that the train was coming. The engineer had already blown the whistle for the crossing and was running along at the usual rate of speed when to his horror he saw the old man start to cross the track with the engine right in front of him. In a twinkling Mr. Spidell was struck by the pilot beam of the engine and his body hurled against a high board fence. Engineer Burch hurriedly reversed the engine and ran back to the man with the assistance of passengers picked the injured man up and placed him in the baggage car and brought him to Eleventh street and Broadway, where Dr. Hilton was summoned from the railroad hospital and attended him. Besides an ugly wound in the forehead, his right hand and arm were broken and bruised, and internal injuries were sustained. Mr. Spidell was semi-conscious, however, and to Detective Moore and W. E. Cochran, passengers on the train, the injured man said that he did not know the train was coming and did not hear the whistle. This is accounted for because of his advanced age and the fact that he is partially deaf.

When engineer Burch first saw Spidell on the track he had just whistled for the crossing. He blew the whistle again and applied emergency brakes, but too late.

A German Citizen.
Thomas J. Spidell was 74 years old and one of the sturdy German citizens that have contributed so largely to the growth and development of Paducah and McCracken county. He and his wife came here nearly 50 years ago and by thrift and steady economy amassed considerable means. Back in the days of toll gates on McCracken pikes, Mr. Spidell was keeper of the gate on what is now Broadway. Afterwards he operated a brick yard, but for several years he has been running a truck farm. He has a number of houses in the city which he rented, living with his wife, Mrs. Julia Spidell in a house at the corner of Elmwood and Julia streets in Rowlandtown.

Mr. Spidell is survived by daughters, Misses Joe and Mary Spidell, and three brothers, John Spidell, of Seattle, Wash., R. Spidell, of McMinnville, Tenn., and T. Spidell, of Leed, Ky. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Julia Spidell, and a son, Mr. Spidell, who is a member of the church, but was not a member of the church.

YOUTHFUL NIGHT RIDER IS BURIED JUST LIKE A DOG
Hickman, Ky., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—Mrs. Keith has confessed that her 18-year-old son was killed with the night riders in the raid on Dave Walker's home. He was hurled by riders without even a coffin near the scene of the raid.

After the arrest of one of the captives of the night riders, Mrs. Keith told of her son being killed the night the Walker family was killed. Mrs. Keith says the band came along and got her son, taking him with them when they murdered the negroes. The negro, Dave Walker, fired several shots into the band of night riders, killing young Keith.

A man living near Walker's home started to the fire, and after a short time it was laid down and the corn rows for safety, and while lying there the night riders passed by him with the body of a man. The men were grumbling that they couldn't carry the man, when he heard the captain say: "By God, if two of you can't bring him, four of you get hold of him; we can't leave him here." They buried him.

This man, for fear of the night riders, did not tell what he had heard until the arrests at the lake, and now does not want his name connected with the story. He is a responsible man.

He states further that the body of Keith is buried somewhere in the hill near where the Walker family was killed. He was buried without a coffin. Keith was a young man of about 18 years. As he did not return his mother knew he was dead, but for fear of threats made by the night riders, she did not divulge the secret until after the recent arrests of leaders.

WHAT CAUSES DANDRUFF.

Greatest European Authority on Skin Diseases, Says It's a Germ.

The old idea that dandruff is scales of skin thrown off, through a feverish condition of the scalp is exploded.
Prof. Unna, Hamburg, Germany, European authority on skin diseases, says dandruff is a germ disease. The germ burrows under the scalp, throwing up little scales of cuticle, and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root. The only hair preparation that kills dandruff germs is Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, you

ROYAL SUPERSTITIONS.

It is only the ignorant and unlearn-ed who are superstitious, but even such a practical person as the German emperor is apparently not without a certain amount of superstition.
He has always been careful that the ancestral cradle of the Hohenzollerns should be used for each infant member of his family in succession.

This cradle is over two centuries old, and is of curiously carved black oak. It is supposed to protect the baby who sleeps in it from convulsions and other childish ailments.

Italy has also a remarkable superstition. It is believed that dire misfortune will befall the present monarch if the chamber of the dead king he interfered with till at least two generations have passed. Therefore the room of the late King Umberto at the Quirinal is shut, no one except members of the royal family being permitted to enter it. Thus it will remain, silent and unused, like the apartment of King Victor Emmanuel, King Humbert's father, which is just as it was at the time of his death,
some 30 years ago. —Tit Bits.

Europe's Richest Royal Family.

It is not generally known that the imperial family of Russia is the richest royal family in Europe, and derives its vast wealth from three sources:
the state treasury, the imperial domains (formerly church lands), and the so-called "cabinet properties."

A writer in Harper's Weekly gives some interesting facts. The state treasury pays out $7,000,000 per annum for the needs of the imperial house, principally for the maintenance of the palaces and the officials and servants attached to them.

The reigning empress, for example, has an allowance of $100,000 per year, and the dowager empress the same. Every child born to the czar receives from birth to the age of 21 nearly $200,000 a year, while the heir to the throne receives annually, in addition to the maintenance of palaces, $50,000. Daughters receive a dowry of 1,000,000 rubles when they marry.

In Police Court.

Patrolmen Lige Cross and William Johnson were on the scene a little too quick to catch a crap game in the loft of a stable yesterday at noon, for according to the statements of the negroes, the game was just starting when Mr. Cross poked his head through the hatchway and to use crap game vernacular, "caught" the dice before the negro, who wanted to "shoot a nickel," was "faded." As a consequence, nine happy smiling darkies walked out of police court this morning free.

Other cases were: Breach of peace

EARTHQUAKE IS FEARED ON BANKS OF THE MISSISSIPPI

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Oct. 29.—
Residents of this region on both sides of the Mississippi are greatly alarmed, fearing a great earthquake is coming.
They have felt several shocks and recently a landslide carried hundreds of tons of earth into the river. Now the earth is cracking. They fear a return of the earthquake of 1811 which rocked the Mississippi out its bed and caused a terrible landslide.

PAY TEACHERS BETTER.

The scarcity of teachers, of women teachers, is but the further working of the influence which sent men out of this profession. For women, too, are finding greater rewards in business life. We know of women teachers right here in St. Paul who have in the summer vacation equaled their salaries by taking up a business venture temporarily. Such experience means a surrender of teaching (tomorrow. Moreover, the preparation for teaching runs through three years' requirements. And then the salary is $40 for ten months. Whereas, the stenographer, after six months' study or less, can command $40 for twelve months, and in three years, if she has merit, has outtopped the highest salary schedule of the local teacher.

If the cities—St. Paul and Chicago—intend to maintain a school system which shall serve the people must pay the teachers salaries somewhat similar to those commanded in the business world. —St. Paul Dispatch.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN CROWDED

Taft Cheered Nineteen Minutes
by Audience.

Massachusetts Senator Talks In Be half of Both Hughes and Taft.

ANALYZES BRYAN'S SCHEME

New York, Oct. 20.—The Republi can campaign in New York city reached its climax last night when William H. Taft and Charles E.
Hughes, candidate for governor of New York, spoke from the same plat form at Madison Square Garden to an audience that filled the enormous amphitheater. Their appearance at Madison Square Garden came at the close of a day which, from a political viewpoint, was most remarkable.
During the day Taft spoke at 14
meetings, and Hughes spoke 15 times.
Last night, while the Madison Square meeting was in progress, a slight parade was winding its way in a downpour of rain, down through the heart of the city. These were the only path features of the day.

Budding crowd.
Hours before the doors of the gar den were thrown open long lines of ticket holders had formed. There is no other structure in New York which can hold such a big audience as Madison Square Garden, but it soon became apparent to the police that it would not have space enough for the hundreds gathered outside. By 8 o'clock the police had to bar all ex cessive seat ticket holders. Sen ators Lodge and DeWitt, and State Attorney Woodruff were each re ceived with cheers as he appeared upon the platform.
General Porter, chairman, made a brief speech in which he considered the issues of the campaign. His pre diction of the election of Taft and Hughes brought out prolonged cheers.
Lodge aroused much enthusiasm and received a round of cheers when he favored the election of Taft.
Owen Straus was introduced next and invited a burst of applause by alluding to President Roosevelt as the greatest president since Abraham Lincoln.

Sixteen Minutes for Hughes.
Straus was interrupted by the ap pearance of Governor Hughes in the hall. The crowd sprang to its feet, waving flags; the band played a lively air, which could hardly be heard, and for sixteen minutes there was an up surge. The excitement increased when Hughes reached the platform. Men were standing on chairs, throwing their hats into the air and shouting at the top of their voices. Hughes stood smilingly before the turbulent audience.

When Porter introduced Hughes
as the next governor of New York
there was much cheering.
The governor paid a tribute to Taft and then took up the issues of the state campaign. George A. Kulight, of California, was the next speaker.

Nineteen Minutes for Taft.
There were two minutes after 11 when Taft arrived. As soon as he was introduced there were tremendous cheering, which lasted nineteen min utes. The crowd shouted "Taft, Taft, the bill Taft," and sang Yale songs while the band played, but the in struments could be heard only when the cheering died down a bit.
Taft stood on the platform with a smile of appreciation, wreathing his face. As the cheering continued in finite after minute, Taft grew more serious and tried to compel silence by holding up his hand, but this simply caused more cheering than ex cessive and finally obtained compari tively quiet. Then he introduced Taft as "our next president," and the cheering was resumed. When it stopped Taft started his speech.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Mas sachusetts, covered in his speech at Madison Square garden last night with the names of both national and state candidates, who he contrasted with the "candid" man who merely deals in
"able words," which do not even effi ciently.

cannot refrain from saying that out siders find it difficult to understand why a candidate for a high office should be opposed because he en dorses to carry out the provisions of his state constitution. But the interest in the governorship of New York is second only to the interest of the American people in the presidency.
This is due partly to the great ness of the state but partly also in a large measure this year to the character and achievement of Gov ernor Hughes and to the nature of the contest made against him for re election. Let me tell you how this contest looks to the citizens of other states. We see in Governor Hughes a man who grounded a great public service in the insurance investigation.
We see in him an able governor who has labored fearlessly and unceasingly for what he believes to be right and in the best and highest interests of the people and of good government.
We may or may not agree with all his views or policies, but this is of little importance. It is clear to us that his purpose is lofty, that his aims are high. He is a man of deeds, he has striven for what is best, he has shown a great generosity and proved his staunch Republicanism in laboring for the national cause even to the sacrifice of his personal interests.
His defeat as we look at it would mean a blow to the best ideals of American politics and would give to every man struggling for the right in public life that safety and success are to be found in low aim and unbrav ery to selfish interests and to the reward for a brave battle for the right can only be political defeat. We cannot believe that the people of New York will permit such a miserable message of discouragement and de feat to go forth to us on election night.

Everyone knows where Governor
Hughes stands. He needs no man.
He is a great moral figure. The country admires him. He is able and honest. He is a strong, real man.
Will you set him aside for an amate ur, a young man who merely seeks in generalities which do not even glit ter and who has no record to give as surance of his future? We of the other states profoundly interested in your decision cannot believe it possible.
We look to you in the name of good politics, for the sake of honesty and decency and all that is good in politics, to make Governor of your great Empire state, Charles E.
Hughes.

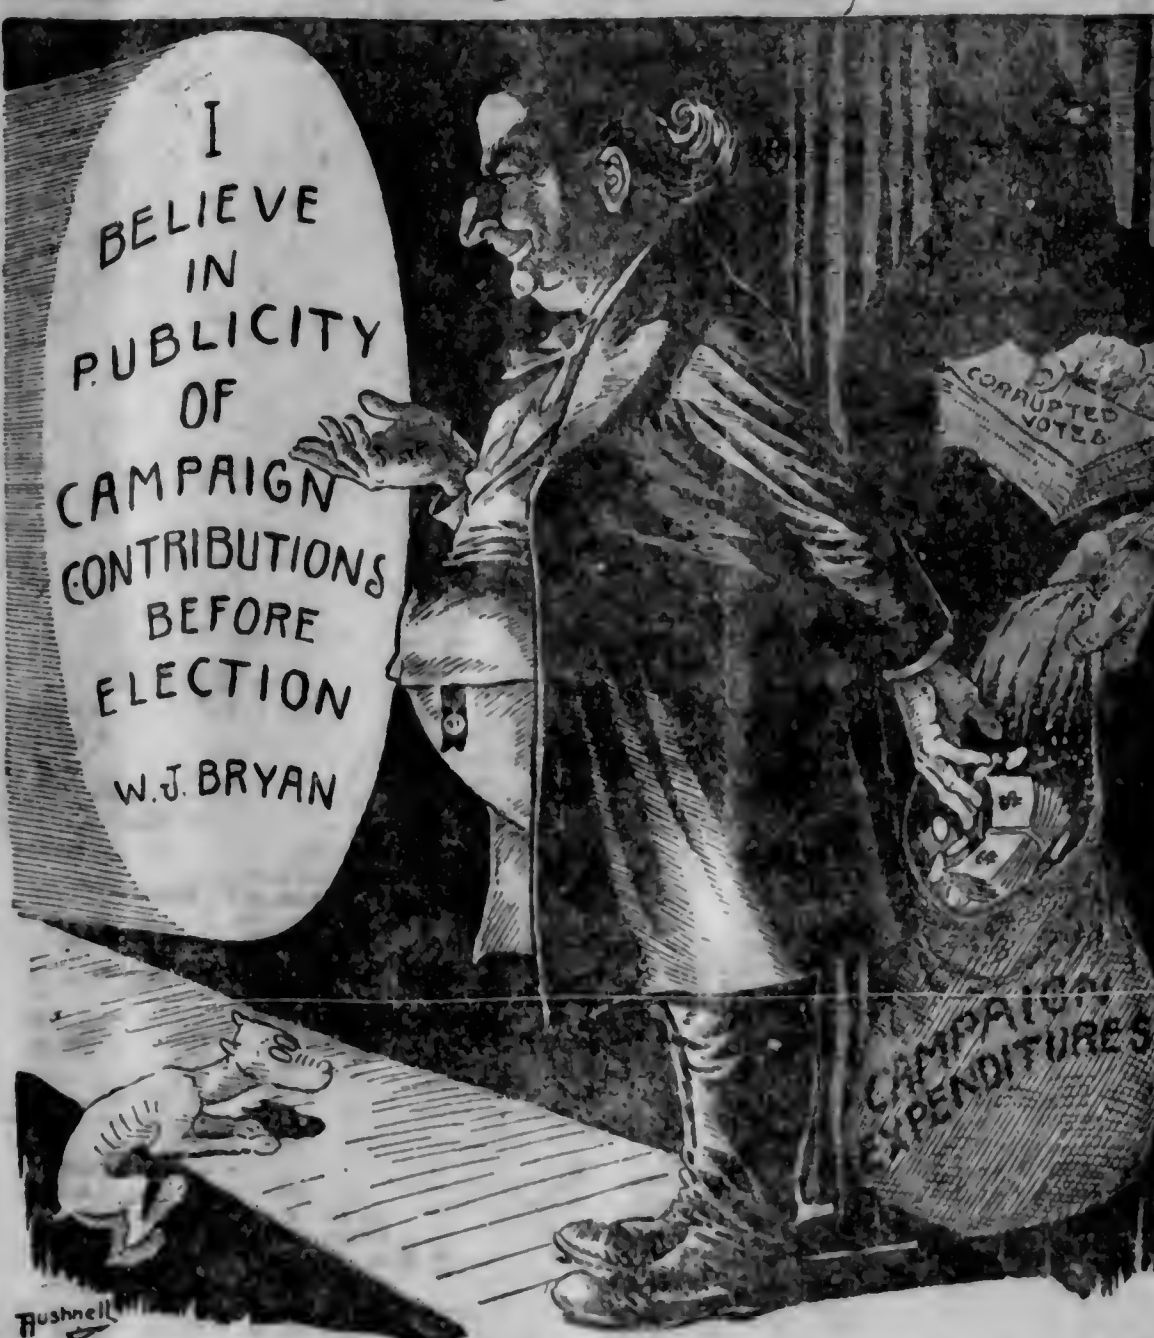

National Issues.
I turn from the state to the na

what measures we are to expect, and

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restores women to normal health.
Mrs. Maria Copenhaver, of 315 So.
1st St., Paris, Mo., writes:
"For two years I suffered from the worst form of female trouble, until I was almost driven frantic. Nothing but mor phine would relieve me. Lydia E. Pink ham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness, and made me a well woman. Every sick woman should benefit by my experience."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.
For thirty years, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration, etc. Why don't you try it?
Don't hesitate to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about your sickness you do not understand. She will treat your letter with confidence and advise you free. No woman ever regretted writing her, and because of her vast experience she has helped thousands. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Turn the Light on the Other Hand, Mr. Bryan!

Mr. Bryan seems to favor the publication of the contributions before the election, but postpones the publication of expenditures till after that time. I think that the character of the expenditures is quite as important as the character and source of the contributions.—William H. Taft's Reply to the Democratic Nominee.

WHEELS WILL GO ROUND IF TAFT IS ELECTED TUESDAY

The National Association of Manufacturers, through its organ, American Industries, has just completed a canvass of its 3,000 members throughout the United States in nearly every line of trade to ascertain the community's commercial status twelve months after the panic. The canvass was not made to serve any political purpose, and the forthcoming election was not mentioned, but the members of the association have taken advantage of one of the questions to declare that prosperity depends upon the election of Taft.

The canvass was made by means of letters sent out two weeks ago. Four questions were asked of the members relating to the exact condition of trade at present, the percentage of increase in business in the last ten months, the possibilities for future improvement and any suggestions which might serve to better future conditions. Everybody answered the last question by suggesting that Taft be elected.

A few of the suggestions for the future, with the firms suggesting them, are as follows:

The Woodward Iron company, Woodward, Ala.—"Elect Taft."

Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron company, Birmingham, Ala.—"The possibilities for the iron trade in 1903 hinge on the election of Taft as president and the ability of the railroads to finance their needs."

Hardy-Tyner Manufacturing company, Birmingham, Ala.—"If the Republican ticket is elected we believe the outlook is bright for a good business."

The Baltimore Bridge company, Baltimore, Md.—"Elect Taft. The Democrats had the opportunity of a lifetime and sold their birthright for a mess of pottage."

Lowell & Engell, lumber, Mangor, Me.—"The only suggestion we can make in regard to increasing the general prosperity of the country is that we must all do our utmost to elect Mr. Taft. We believe that the election of Bryan would be a national calamity from a business point of view."

Marshall Electric company, Boston.—"If Bryan is elected we shall probably have a setback for a year or more, as our business depends largely upon new building undertakings, which are unresponsive to confidence."

Lowrey Chocolate company, Boston.—"I think the outlook for the year fairly good. If we elect Taft we may by a year from now be enjoying good business."

The Atlantic Works, East Boston.—"Elect William H. Taft president. The election of Mr. Bryan will, in our opinion, prolong business conditions indefinitely."

Portland Iron & Steel company, Boston.—"We believe that the manufacturers and merchants are now only awaiting the final outcome of the election, and if a Republican administration is continued on a sane and conservative basis, prosperity for everybody is assured."

Interlaken Mills, Providence, R. I.—"We consider the trade possibilities for the year are favorable. The election of Mr. Bryan would be a serious blow to all kinds of business and very nearly criminal when the character and fitness of Mr. Taft are taken into consideration."

The Diamond Mills Paper company, New York.—"The business outlook is rather encouraging and from present indications we think that if the Republican party is successful in the coming election there is no doubt there will be a considerable increase and a good and stable business."

J. & C. Fisher, piano manufacturers, New York.—"With the election of Mr. Taft we think trade possibilities for the coming year will rapidly get back to normal conditions and that the best industrial years this country has ever seen are before us."

Welsbach company, Philadelphia.—"General prosperity will be promoted by the election of the Republican candidates and the administration by business men at the head of industry."

INHERITANCE TAX

COURT OF APPEALS UNANIMOUS
BY UPHOLDS THE LAW.

Penalty of 5 Per Cent On All Devises
In Excess of $500 Declared Constitutional.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 29.—Kentucky's new inheritance tax law, imposing a penalty of 5 per cent on all devises in excess of $500, was upheld by the court of appeals in an opinion written by Judge Settle. The opinion was handed down in the case of Armilda Booth's administrator against the commonwealth on appeal. Two other cases, involving the same point, were also passed upon in the same opinion. The case has been hard fought and is regarded as important, as it will be an additional source of revenue when the estates, which are bequeathed in Kentucky, are required to pay taxes. Just how much revenue will be derived from this source is not known, as there is no way of telling just how much property is passed by will or inheritance during the course of a year. It must be considered, however, and it is probable that the state will get some thousands of dollars every year in this way.

In fighting the law those opponents of it contended that the law was unconstitutional in that it did not conform to the section of the constitution which requires all taxes to be uniform. It was also contended that the law itself, which was passed in 1902, was defective in that it did not specify who should pay the tax, whether the state or the devisee.

All these points were taken by the judge in his opinion upholding the law which was contended in by the whole court which heard the case. Judge Settle holds that the act is constitutional, as the Constitution provides for a special tax and this falls under the head of a special tax. He also holds that the law imposes the tax upon the devisee, who must pay it to the state, and that it is not to be paid out of the estate proper.

Judge Settle says it is not the province of the court to determine the wisdom of the law, but simply to consider it from a legal standpoint, and looking at it in that way he finds that it is sound and will stand. The legislature, he says, has the power to pass such a law and the court has nothing to do but construe it.

Bryan is an orator. Oratory factories employ no hands. If you want a job, vote for Taft.

If you must vote for Bryan, keep your wealth and do it in 1912. This year try Taft.

STANDING PAT

CASTRO REFUSES TO REVOKE DECREE OF MAY 14.Laynes, Netherlands, however, to Send an Agent for Amicable Settlement.Caracas, Venezuela, Tuesday, Oct.
20, via Willemstad, Curacao, Oct. 18.
—President Castro, in his answer to the second Netherlands note, has declined to revoke his decree of May 14, prohibiting the transshipment of goods for Venezuelan ports at Cura-cao, which has been so obnoxious to the people of that island.This answer was made September 12. The president expresses surprise that the Netherlands government should ask for the revocation of this decree after acknowledging Venezuela's right to issue it. Continuing, he asks the Netherlands to send a confidential agent to Caracas to arrange the terms of the amicable settlement of the difficulties between the two governments.The chief of the artillery branch of the Venezuelan army has completed the preparations for the defense of La Guaira. In anticipation of a naval demonstration by Holland before that port on November 1, shells have been distributed to all the modern guns installed in the forts on the mountain side above La Guaira. President Castro's health is still delicate and causes anxiety to his friends.The Netherlands government, in its second communication to Venezuela, dated August 20, said:"The revocation of the decree of May 14 is demanded in the most energetic manner, and the government of Venezuela must from this moment and without delay, fulfill the protocol of 1894, and not prolong the intolerable state of affairs which it has created by the decree of May 14.""It is only this revocation which can confirm as an accomplished fact the assurances from your excellency
by the minister-president (M. Deltus) has not altered the good relations so happily existing between the two nations, and that Venezuela also desires to maintain them on the most amicable basis."

THE POPE'S BIRTHDAY.

The pope celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood very quietly and almost privately on September 19. The official celebration will take place next month, when all the cardinals and the members of the diplomatic body accredited to the Holy See and of the Black nobility who are still spending their summer vacation in the country or seashore will have returned to Rome.In order not to interrupt their holidays Plux X. consented to postpone the official celebration of his jubilee. Still he insisted on having a private celebration on the real date and he personally arranged with his old friend, Cardinal Vavallara, the patriarch of Venice, for the Venetian legation to come to Rome for the state jubilee mass.Only the pilgrims from Venice and a few of the young men's societies were admitted to be for the Pope's jubilee which he said he celebrated children. —New York Sun.Auction Sale of

Banderine

GROWS HAIR
and we can PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Banderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and vitally dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It won't do an earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when this occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon to plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your hair will grow out naturally as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Banderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair follicle or liquor of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair grows the effect of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

Now at all druggists in three sizes,

ROUTE

OF AFRICAN HUNT IS DISCUSSED WITH MISSIONARY BISHOP.

Break for the Interior Will Be Made at Uganda—Sun Kermitt Will Be Official Photographer.

Washington, Oct. 28.—While President Roosevelt's plans for his African hunting trip have not been entirely completed some general idea of his expedition was gained today from Bishop Joseph C. Hartzel, for 12 years in charge of the Methodist church in Africa, who spent some time with the president and talked over the trip, in addition to discussing the work of the missionaries in that country.

The general route to be taken by the president when he reaches Africa will be from Alexandria by steamer, through the Suez Canal, across the Red Sea and down the east coast of Africa to the port of Mombasa, the capital of British East Africa.

At Mombasa, the outfit of the expedition, which has been purchased in London, will be assembled and shipped by rail to Lake Victoria Nyanza. The president and his party will make the trip to Lake Victoria Nyanza by rail, stopping off at various points along the route to make hunting excursions into the interior, away from the railroad.

The country traversed by the railway is of the wildest sort, and all kinds of big game are found. The real work of the expedition will not begin, however, until the party reaches the plateau of Uganda, after crossing Lake Victoria Nyanza, where abundance game to be found nowhere else in the world. It is not known exactly how long the president will remain in this region.

The president's party is to consist of his son Kermitt, who is to be the official photographer of the expedition, and two naturalists from the National Museum. No other person will be taken from this country. When he reaches Africa he will employ the services of natives and guides. A caravan will be organized for the trip from the railway terminus to the Nile. The naturalists will prepare such specimens as it is thought the National Museum will want.

Whether Mrs. Roosevelt will meet the party at Khartoum will not be definitely decided until the trip is begun.

During the entire trip the president will be on English territory, and the English officials along the route will do everything in their power to assist the party.

Bishop Hartzel said the president expressed the greatest interest in the work being done by the missionaries in Africa. The president promised that during his coming trip to Africa in 1909 he would visit as many of the mission stations as possible. The bishop was asked whether he had asked the president to do some missionary work. He replied that he would like to see the president doing such work, but he had not made the proposal to him.

He Kept at It.

"I am introducing," the peddler began, "a patent electric hair brush—"

"What do I want with a hair brush?" growled the business man. "Can't you see I'm bald?"

"Your lady, perhaps?"

"Bald, too, except when she's dressed up."

"Yes, Mr. But you may have at home a little child—"

"We have. It's one month old and quite bald."

"Of course, at that age," said the peddler. "But," he persisted, "mayn't you keep a dog?"

"We do," said the business man. "A hairless Chinese dog!"

The peddler dived into another pocket.

"Allow me," he said, "to show you the latest thing in typewriters."

A woman gets more enjoyment out of a good cat than a man does out of a henry laugh.

This Fact.

New York, Oct. 29.—William S. Route, of Pittsburgh, a representative and legislative committee member of Division 291, Order of Railway Conductors, has sent out a letter to members of his organization to remind them of how Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, agreed with the ruling made by Judge Taft in the so-called Ann Arbor case, and in accordance with it was instrumental in having one of the rates of the brotherhood abolished.

The case was heard April 3, 1892. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen were on strike for higher wages on the Toledo and Ann Arbor railway. Acting under Rule 12 of their organization, an engineer on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern refused to handle cars coming from the Ann Arbor road.

Right of Contract.
An injunction was asked for against Chief Arthur, ordering him to suspend rule 12, providing for such a sympathetic strike. Chief Arthur accordingly suspended it.

Judge Taft held that the rule violated the interstate commerce law. Judge Taft, however, also held that the railroad enjoyed the right of free contract, the service being terminable at the option of either party, and that the court could not compel the enforcement of personnel service against the will of either employer or employee. He declared, on the other hand, that no man should leave his employment at a time or place where by so doing he would endanger life or property.

Chief Arthur's brotherhood cut rule 12 completely from its by-laws, and Gilford now perceived that the court was right.

This is shown clearly by the "Locomotive Engineers' Monthly." In its issue of September, 1908, in an article from which the following is an extract:

Taft's Decision Approved.
"That rule 12 was in positive violation of section 10 of the Interstate Commerce law will hardly be questioned by any one. The Ann Arbor case is not one that furnishes the objectionable features through which we may gain public opinion in securing the much desired regulation of injunctions in labor disputes."

Today the great railway brotherhoods discontinue the sympathetic strike, and today the principle laid down by Judge Taft is made a part of their own contracts or agreements without reference to possible disturbances on the part of other employees on the same or other lines.

There was a rap on his lordship's door.

"My lord," announced the servant, with a low bow, "the airship awaits without."

"Without what, James?" queried his lordship as he lit another cigar.

"Without wings, without gasoline, without ropes and without a propeller. We have just been in a collision."

And with an impatient wave of his hand his lordship ordered the airship taken around to the airship without delay.—Chicago News.

CONDITIONS IN KANSAS DEMAND
ED HIGHER OIL RATES.

Official Tells of Conditions in Commercial Circles Which Made It Necessary.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Judge Franklin Ferris has concluded the taking of testimony in Chicago in the railroad phase of the government suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company, and announced that the hearing would be resumed in New York next Tuesday.

There are a number of witnesses who will be called by the defense to testify in the adjourned hearing. All of the testimony of the defense must be presented before the examiner before December 1, and the government will be allowed until the first of the year to rebut such parts of the evidence as it wishes to combat.

Three witnesses took the stand in the concluding session. Frank Zimmerman, assistant general freight agent of the Michigan Central road, presented several division sheets showing rates on oil products, each sheet bearing the words "Not to be posted." Special Counsel Kellogg for the government said that he had asked for the state tariff sheets, and not division sheets.

Ignored Standard's Protest.
Edward H. Hoyd, assistant to the vice president of the Gould lines, told of conditions in commercial circles which made it necessary, in 1889, for the western roads to agree on uniform rates in traffic to upper Mississippi river points, and testified that oil and oil products were excepted from the pro rating system when it was found that no hardship was worked on the river tows through such exception.

F. A. Leyland, chairman of the southwest tariff commission, which issues tariff sheets for a number of roads, told of conditions in Kansas which led to raising the rates of oil from the Kansas fields to Kansas City and St. Louis. He declared that the Standard Oil company had protested against a raise in the rate of 7 cents on oil shipments, and that the protest had been ignored.

On cross-examination Mr. Kellogg sought to show that the Standard Oil company used pipe lines, and that the increase in rates was immaterial to it.

IRELAND STILL PRODUCTIVE.

Feeds Home Population and England and Exports Its Manufactures.

There are in round numbers 20,000,000 acres of land in Ireland. Twenty-five per cent of this is waste. The 15,000,000 acres of land more or less valuable is used mostly for grazing. Besides feeding for the most part the four and a half million people on the island, these farms produce for export live stock of an annual value of nearly $37,000,000. The export of textiles from the island, largely linen made from home-grown flax, is worth a little more than the live stock. Linen, dairy products, poultry and eggs exported from the island are worth annually nearly $50,000,000. The three items amount to a total of nearly $100,000,000. Nearly all of the food products go to England, which owes Ireland for a great many of the hearty breakfasts of bacon and eggs enjoyed there. The textile fabrics go all over the world much of them passing through the hands of English merchants.

Southern California is larger than Ireland; but our farmers do not produce $50,000,000 worth of bacon, butter, eggs and poultry. We have not much more than a ninth part of the population of Ireland; but we do not produce enough of these products for the home market; and we are farther away from growing flax and converting it into linen to export any part of $50,000,000 worth a year after using what we need at home. Such figures as these suggest to us what may be done here; how broad a basis for growth and development narrows our section.—Los Angeles Times.

Do not let any one tell you that something else is just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills because there isn't anything just as good. Sold by all druggists.

For Political Reasons.

"But I don't see why I can't take the trip," says the wife who has proposed that her husband allow her to go to Europe alone.

"Oh, of course you can take it if you like," replies the husband, "but you know people will say a great many things."

"But you don't care what people say," she persists, "do you? You surely have trust in me, haven't you?"

"Sheesh! Don't say anything about trusts until after election. Don't you know I'm a candidate?"—Chicago Evening Post.

Painters.

The Munich Jugend has discovered five signs by which to detect the school to which a painter belongs: (1) If he paints the sky gray and the grass black, he belongs to the good old classical school. (2) If he paints the sky blue and the grass green, he is a realist. (3) If he paints the sky yellow and the grass blue, he is an impressionist. (4) If he paints the sky purple and the grass red, he shows the possession of great decorative talent.

Nye's Bald Head.

Bill Nye in his earlier days once approached the manager of a lecture bureau with an application for employment, and was asked if he had ever done anything in that line. "Oh, yes," said Bill. "What have you done?" "Well," replied Bill, "my last job was in a dime museum, sitting in a barrel with the top of my head sticking out, posing as the largest ostrich egg in captivity."

WORKINGMEN ARE FOR TAFT.

Large Majority Will Support the Republican Ticket.

Washington, Oct. 28.—That a large majority of workmen will vote for Taft, is the opinion of Republican leaders here, on account of the Republican party's record and the speeches and letters of President Roosevelt and Judge Taft, and despite the efforts of Samuel Thompson to deliver the labor vote to Bryan.

King Edward is sure of at least one fine Christmas present. This truly royal gift is the Cullinan diamond, a present from the Transvaal government to his majesty. The diamond is the largest in the world.

its value being estimated commercially at $3,000,000. The diamond was split into two stones weighing respectively 1,700 and 1,000 carats. Some of the "chips" from these weigh 300 carats. The two large stones will adorn the crown and scepter of the British sovereign. They are to be known as the Cullinan and Cullinan II.

Dr. Pierce's Health Talks

The miracle of motherhood is often overshadowed by the misery of motherhood. The great functional changes which are incident to child bearing leave their mark for life on many a mother. Some women offer up their lives as a sacrifice on the altar of motherhood. A far greater number live on in ceaseless misery. Their strength fails, their beauty fades, they have no ambition and no enjoyment in life. To every woman

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Offers escape from the pains and perils of motherhood. Taken during the period of waiting and anticipation this medicine strengthens the body, nourishes the nerves, and prepares the whole womanly system for the coming of baby. It also insures an abundant supply of nourishment for the child.

The mind feels bright and buoyant. There is no anxiety, no dread, but in its place a happy anticipation of the baby's coming, which counts for the future happiness of the child unborn. The use of "Favorite Prescription" makes the baby's advent easy, and gives abundant vitality to nursing mothers.

There is no alcohol or habit-forming drugs in "Favorite Prescription." It is a purely vegetable medicine.

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." There is nothing "just as good" for weak and sickly women. All its ingredients printed on its bottle-wrapper.

The larger success of doctor or druggist is never won by putting love for the dollar above duty to the sick. Protecting the sick, giving them what they ask for when Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is called for, will enrich him in respect, if it does not result to the utmost his profits.

The above delinquent tax bills due the City of Paducah will be offered for sale by the city treasurer on Monday, November 2nd, 1908, at 10 o'clock a. m., unless paid before that time to the city treasurer at his office in the city hall.

Respectfully,
ALEX. KIRKLAND,
Auditor.

Fortune Teller.
"He claims a knowledge of the Poor Law second to none," said a collector of James Murphy, who was charged at Tower Bridge with refractory conduct and throwing a salt cellar at an official of the Tanner street workhouse.

Murphy's knowledge of the law was such, the collector said admiringly that he had baffled the guardians, and had never been sent to the sessions as a rogue and vagabond. The present assault took place on his two hundred and first admission to the workhouse.

Murphy skillfully cross-examined the witnesses against him, and was recommended so that he could call an inmate as a witness.—London Express.

THE TALE OF THE
TAINTED TENNER

By O. HENRY.

(Copyright, 1908, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

MONEY talks. But you may think that the conversation of a little old ten dollar bill in New York would be nothing more than a whisper. Oh, very well! Press up this sotto voce autobiography of an X if you like. If you are one of the kind that prefers to listen to John D.'s cheekbook roar at you through a megaphone as it passes by, all right! But don't forget that small change can say a word to the point now and then. The next time you tip your grocer's clerk a silver quarter to give you extra weight of his boss's goods read the four words above the lady's head. How are they for reported?

I am a ten dollar treasury note, series of 1901. You may have seen one in a friend's hand. On my face, in the center, is a picture of the Union Shield, inscribed a buffalo by fifty or sixty millions of Americans. The heads of Captain Lewis and Captain Clark adorn the ends. On my back is the graceful figure of Liberty or Ceres or Maxine Elliott standing in the center of the stage on a conservatory plant. My references is—or are—section 2588, revised statutes. Ten cold, hard dollars—I don't say whether silver, gold, lead or iron—Uncle Sam will hand you over his counter if you want to cash me in.

I beg you will excuse any conversational breaks that I make. Thanks! I knew you would. But that sneaking little respect and agreeable feeling toward even an X, haven't you? You see, a taint bill doesn't have much chance to acquire a correct form of expression. I never knew a really cultured and educated person that could afford to hold a true spot any longer than it would take to do an Arthur Duffy to the nearest that's all sign or delicatessen store.

For a six-year-old I've had a lively and gorgeous circulation. I guess I've paid as many debts as the man who dies. I've been owned by a good many kinds of people, but a little old ragged, damp, dingy five dollar silver certificate gave me a far one day. I was next to it in the fat and bad smelling purse of a butcher.

"Here, you Sitting Bull," says I, "don't scrouge so. Anyhow, don't you think it's about time you went in on a customs payment and got released? For a series of 1892 you're a sight."

"Oh, don't get crackly just because you're a buffalo bill!" says the fier. "You'd be limp, too, if you'd been stuffed down in a thick cotton and like thread under an elastic all day and the thermometer not a degree under 85 in the store."

"I never heard of a pocketbook like that," says I. "Who carried you?"

"A shopgirl," says the five spot. "What's that?" I had to ask.

"You'll never know till their million comes," says the fier.

Just then a two dollar bill behind me with a George Washington head spoke up to the fier:

"Aw, out out yer kinks. Ain't lise thread good enough for yer? If you was under all cotton like I've been to-day and choked up with factory dust till the lady with the cornucopia on me sneezed half a dozen times you'd have some reason to complain."

That was the next day after I arrived in New York. I came in a $500 package of tens to a Brooklyn bank from one of its Pennsylvania correspondents, and I haven't made the account.

quintessence of any of the five and two spots' friends' pocketbooks yet. Silk for mine every time.

I was lucky money. I kept on the move. Sometimes I changed hands twenty times a day. I saw the inside of every business. I fought for my owner's every pleasure. It seemed that on Saturday nights I never missed being slugged down on a bar. Tens were always slipped down, while ones and twos were slid over to the bartenders.

I got in the habit of looking for mine, and I managed to soak in a little straight or home spilled Martini or Manhattan whenever I could. Once I got tied up in a great greasy roll of bills in a pushcart peddler's jeans. I thought I never would get in circulation again, for the future department store owner lived on 8 cents' worth of dog meat and onions a day. But this peddler got into trouble one day on account of having his cart too near a crossing, and I was rescued. I always will feel grateful to the rop that got me. He changed me at a cigar store near the Bowery that was running a crap game in the back room. So it was the captain of the precinct, after all, that did me the best turn when he got his. He blew me for wine the next evening in a Broadway restaurant, and I really felt as glad to get back again as an Astor does when he sees the lights of Charing Cross.

I ainted ten certainly does get action on Broadway. I was allmost once and got folded in a little dogskin purse among a lot of dimes. They were bragging about the busy times there were in Ossining whenever three girls got hold of one of them during the tea green season. But it's slow moving vehicles keep to the right for the little look this when you think of the way we Union Shelders refuse to stick to anything during the rush lobster hour.

The first I ever heard of tainted money was one night when a good thing with a Van to his name threw me over with some other bills to buy a stack of blues.

About midnight a big, easy going man with a fat face like a monk's and the eyes of a jauntier with his wages raised took me and a lot of other notes and rolled us into what is termed a "wad" among the money tainters. "Ticket me for five hundred," said he to the banker, and look out for everything, Charlie. I'm going out for a stroll in the gle before the moonlight fades from the brow of the cliff. If anybody finds the roof in their way there's $50,000 wrapped in a comic supplement in the upper left hand corner of the safe. He told. Everywhere he held, but he not bowled over. "Night."

I found myself between two twenty dollar gold certificates. One of 'em says to me:

"Well, old shorthorn, you're in luck tonight. You'll see something of life. Old Jack's going to make the Tenderloin look like a Hamburg steak."

"Explains," says I. "I'm used to joints, but I don't care for filet mignon with the kind of sauce you serve."

"Excuse me," said the twenty. "Old Jack is the proprietor of this gambling house. He's going on a white to-night because he offered $50,000 to a church and it refused to accept it because they said his money was tainted."

"What is a church?" I asked.

"Oh, I forgot," says the twenty. "that I was talking to a tinner. Of course you don't know. You're too much to put into the contribution basket and not enough to buy anything at a bazaar. A church is—a large building in which penwipers and tidies are sold at $20 each."

I don't care much about churning with gold certificates. There's a streak of yellow in 'em. All is not gold that's quitters.

Old Jack certainly was a gift edged apart. When it came his time to loosen up he never referred the waiter to an actuary.

By and by it got around that he was smiting the rock in the wilderness, and all along Broadway things with cold noses and hot guile fell in on our trail. The third jungle book was there waiting for somebody to put covers on it. Old Jack's money may have had a taint to it; but, all the same, he had orders for his Camembert piling up on him every minute. First his friends rallied round him, and then the fellows that his friends knew by sight, and then a few of his enemies buried the hatchet, and finally he was buying souveners for so many Newportishers, maidens and butterfly coxets that the head waiters were phoning all over town for Julian Mitchell to please come around and get them into some kind of order.

At last we floated into an uptown cafe that I knew by heart. When the Hodocriers' union in jackets and aprons saw us coming the chief goal kicker called out, "Six, eleven, forty-two, nineteen, twelve," to his men, and they put on nose guards till it was clear whether we meant Port Arthur or Portsmouth. But Old Jack wasn't working for the furniture and glass factories that night. He sat down quiet and sang "Tambie" in a half hearted way. His feelings had been hurt, so the twenty told me, because his offer to the church had been refused.

But the wassail went on, and Brady himself couldn't have humored the thirteenth into a better imitation of the real penchant for the stuff that you screw out of a bottle with a napkin.

Old Jack paid the twenty above me for a round, leaving me on the outside of his roll. He laid the roll on the table and sent for the proprietor.

"Mike," says he, "here's money that the good people have refused. Will it buy of your wares in the name of the devil? They say it's tainted."

"It will," says Mike, "and I'll put it in the drawer next to the bills that was paid to the parson's daughter for kisses at the church fair to build a new parsonage for the parson's daughter to live in."

At 1 o'clock, when the hodocriers were making ready to close up the front and keep the inside open, a woman man slipped in the door of the restaurant and comes up to Old Jack's table. You've seen the kind—black shawl, creepy hair, ragged skirt, white face, eyes a cross between Gabriel's and a sick kitten's—the kind of woman that's always on the lookout for an automobile or the mendicancy squad—and she stands there without a word and looks at the money.

Old Jack gets up, peels up off the roll and hands me to her, with a bow.

"Madam," says he, just like actors I've heard, "here is a tainted bill. I am a gambler. This bill came to me tonight from a gentleman's son. Where he got it I do not know. If you will do me the favor to accept it, it is yours."

The woman took me with a trembling hand.

"Sir," said she, "I counted thousands of this issue of bills into packages when they were virgin from the press. I was a clerk in the treasury department. There was an official to whom I owed my position. You say they are tainted now. If you only knew! But I won't say any more. Thank you with all my heart, sir—thank you—thank you."

Where do you suppose that woman carried me almost at a run? To a bakery. Away from Old Jack and a sizzling good time to a bakery. And I get changed, and she does a Sheridan twenty miles away with a dozen rolls and a section of jelly cake as big as a turbine water wheel. Of course I lost sight of her then, for I was snowed up in the bakery, wondering whether I'd get changed at the drug store the next day in an alum deal or paid over to the cement works.

A week afterward I butted up against one of the one dollar bills the baker had given the woman for change.

"Hello, $1.0000000," says I. "Veron't you in the change for me in a bakery last Saturday night?"

"Yep," says the solitaire in his free and easy style.

"How did the deal turn out?" I asked.

"She blew $17051431 for milk and round steak," says the one spot. "She kept me till the rent man came. It was a hum room with a sick kid in it. But you ought to have seen him go for the bread and thimble of formaldehyde. Half starved, I guess. Then she prayed some. Don't get stuck up, tinner. We one spots hear ten prayers where you hear one. She said something about 'who giveth to the poor.' Oh, let's cut out the alum talk. I'm certainly tired of the company that keeps me. I wish I was big enough to move in society with you tainted bills."

"Shut up," says I. "There's no such thing. I know the rest of it. There's a 'tendeth to the Lord' somewhere in it. Now look on my back and read what you see there."

"This note is a legal tender at its face value for all debts, public and private."

"This talk about tainted money makes me tired," says I.

SONG.

When that I loved a maiden
My heaven was in her eyes.
And when they deep above me
I knew no deeper skies;
But when her heart forsook me,
My spirit broke his bars.
For grief beyond the sunset
And love beyond the stars.

When that I loved a maiden
She seemed the world to me;
Now is my son; the universe,
My dreams—the sky and sea;
There is no heaven above me,
No glory hinds or hars
My grief beyond the sunset,
My love beyond the stars.

When that I loved a maiden
I worshipped where she trod;
But when she clove my heart, the cleft
Set free the imprisoned god;
Then was I king of all the world;
My soul had burst his bars
For grief beyond the sunset
And love beyond the stars.

New Oliver No. 5
Sets Swiftest Pace Ever Known in Typewriter Selling

The wonderful new model, Oliver No. 5, has taken the market by storm.

Its reception by the public has exceeded in enthusiasm anything we had dared to anticipate.

Kindergartners and stenographers alike have welcomed it as the one machine that answers the multitudinous needs of the hour.

The cry is for Speed! Speed!—and the Oliver responds.

The demand for durability is satisfied by the sturdy, steel-clad Oliver.

To a call for a writing machine that will do many things and do each of them equally well, the Oliver answers with its unexampled versatility.

Its visible writing saves the strain on eye and brain.

Its flexibility tends beauty in its work. The letters that bear the Oliver imprint are the letters that seem to speak.

Oliver No. 5 fairly bristles with new and exclusive time-and-money-saving features. We have space to mention only a few of the more important ones.

—Disappearing indicator shows exact printing point.

—Balance Setting Mechanism saves operative effort.

—Line Ruling Device is fine for tabulated work.

—Double Release doubles convenience.

—Non-Vibrating Hinge insures stability. Yet with all of these added improvements, we have still further simplified the Oliver—by fusing brains with metal.

Oliver No. 5 is a dream come true—the dream of Thomas Oliver crystalized into this wonderful mechanism of shining steel that embodies every possible requirement of a perfect writing machine.

Ask the nearest Oliver agent for a Free Demonstration of Oliver No. 5. Or send for The Oliver Book—yours for a postcard.

EX-EMPLOYEES CAN RIDE

Important New Rulings With Regard to Railway Passes.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Free passes may be issued to bona fide ex-employees of a road, who are traveling to re-enter the railroad service. Passes cannot be extended to the families of employees who died a natural death while in the service of common carriers, though that privilege is accorded to the families of employees killed in the service. These are among the rulings announced by the Interstate Commerce commission today. The commission holds that a railroad may provide in its tariffs, that whenever, because of washouts or other accidents, passengers are delayed beyond their ticket limit, or so as to curtail their stop-over privileges the conductor or other agent may, by indorsement on the ticket extend the time to cover such detention.

Elephant Tricks Brutal

Strong remarks on the cruelty of wild beast performances were made by Mr. Garrett, the West London magistrate.

He fined a picturesque person known as Havada, the elephant attendant at the Ceylon Village of the Franco-British exposition, 40s. and 2s. costs, and William Schreda, the trainer £5 and £7 7s. costs, and he bound over Gustav Hingebek to come up for judgment if called upon for cruelty to elephants.

The cruelty consisted of forcing

LEADERS OF LABOR.

New York, Oct. 27.—The action of President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, in sending a circular letter to the various unions throughout the country appealing for money with which to help the friends and defeat the enemies of labor—in other words, to support William Jennings Bryan and oppose William H. Taft for the presidency—is being condemned bitterly by labor men in this city. Officers of the various locals in New York attack Gompers because of the covert manner in which he is seeking to raise funds to participate in the political campaign when the chief principle of the labor organization is to keep free of political alliances. They are bitter against him because of his apparent desire to influence every member of the union to vote for Bryan, and they are frank in saying that he never has, and never can deliver a single vote besides his own against Taft.

A tour of the delegates to the Central Federation of Unions, which is the central organization of the unions allied with the American Federation of Labor, is convincing that Gompers' ambition to swing the labor vote will result in a dismal failure. They resent the interference of the labor leader and many of them say that because of that attempt at political domination they will show their independence by voting for Taft. Many of the delegates to the central local organization have been directed to announce that the members of their local union are opposed to political manipulations by labor and they will not contribute a dollar toward Gompers' fund. They served notice to that effect at a weekly meeting.

Unions Refuse Gompers' Plan.
The result of the machinations of Gompers and his efforts to use sledge hammer methods to whip the laboring men into line for Bryan, will be that the workmen will vote strictly according to the dictates of their conscience. Republican union men are fighting staunchly for Taft and because of Gompers' methods have won Democrats to their side. James R. Ryan, delegate to the C. F. U. from the Photo Engravers' Union No. 1, who has been bitterly opposed to the proposition of the central body in concurring with the burden of the letter sent out by Gompers, said that his union would not contribute a dollar to Gompers' fund.

"Adherents of Gompers," said he, "are seeking to show that the Republican party never has enacted legislation in answer to the request of the labor unions. In the last two years, since Governor Hughes has been in office, the federated unions have made many appeals to the state legislature for laws, and practically every one of their appeals has been answered. Under the guidance of Governor Hughes the state legislature has enacted more laws aiding labor than all the previous legislatures put together."

Democratic Party Never Helped.
"I know as a fact that mighty few organizations will vote a cent toward the Gompers fund. My organization will not give anything."

Alfred J. Hamilton, leading member of the Stereotypers' Union, said that his union would not take any action on the circular. "I fought for Bryan in 1896," he said, "but I am against him this year. The Democratic party never has done anything for the laboring man when in power. No party ever has promised more and done less, and no party has less claim upon the support of laborers than has the Democratic party. If when the Democrats were in power the plutocrats of this country ever were denied anything, I should like to know what that one thing is. The leaders of the Democratic party have betrayed the masses and now Bryan is seeking to harmonize the forces that plunder and are plundered, but he will fail miserably. The people who are lined up behind him now are those who have plundered the laboring people."

Albert Abrahamson, of the Pressmen's Union, asked this question: "What's the use of the laboring men contributing a few thousand dollars to the Democratic party when that party will get hundreds of thousands of dollars, if not millions, from the Standard Oil company?" Adolph Krieger, of Local No. 476, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, is bitterly opposed to the action of Gompers. Elias Wolf, of the Cigar-makers' Union No. 59, said: "If other unions are fools enough to get money for Bryan my union won't."

Says Union Won't Vote For Bryan.

Morris Brown said: "I am always men enough to oppose any attempt by the American Federation of Labor to pledge its members to any political party. I have positive evidence that Gompers advocated abolition of the government injunction plank and now wants labor to vote for the weak injunction plank of the Democratic party which never can be put into force. Despite the requests of Gompers the working people never will vote for Bryan."

Victor Rühr, member of the Amalgamated Painters, said: "The cheap painters are being employed for contracts given out by the Democratic politicians of this city. The Democratic politicians fill the taxicabs, driven by strike breakers, with police while a little boy gets shot to death."

"I hope you came out of that horse trade with a clear conscience?" "Yes," answered St., smiling, "but it kind o' worries me. My conscience is so continually clear that I can't help feelin' I must o' got the worst o' the trade."—Washington Star.

ROOSEVELT'S 50 STRENUOUS YEARS

Yesterday Was the President's Birthday.

His Political Career Has Been One Star Performance Twenty-five Years.

MUNICIPAL POLITICS HIS START

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—President Roosevelt is 50 years old. Twenty-eight strenuous birthdays have passed over Mr. Roosevelt's head since he left Harvard with his diploma in 1880. The twenty-second birthday, the first after his graduation from college was spent in Europe, where he was traveling to recover from the effects of hard study. Upon returning home he plunged at once into the mainstream of municipal politics, and his twenty-third birthday found him campaigning for election to the New York general assembly. At twenty-four Mr. Roosevelt was known all over the country as a new power in the Albany halls of legislation. At twenty-five he was completing his term in the legislature and had added to his fame through his strenuous work as head of the legislative committee appointed to investigate New York's municipal administration.

Mr. Roosevelt's twenty-sixth birthday found him on the stump speaking in behalf of the Republican national ticket. The previous summer, as chairman of the New York delegation he had opposed the nomination of Mr. Blaine, but when Mr. Blaine became the choice of the convention, Mr. Roosevelt fell into line and worked for the party's candidate's success.

Mr. Roosevelt passed his twenty-seventh birthday on his ranch in the Bad Lands cultivating the acquaintance of ranchmen, rustlers and cow-punchers, who subsequently were to form the nucleus of his regiment of rough riders.

At twenty-eight he was again in the turmoil of New York City politics. Henry George was a candidate for mayor, Abram S. Hewitt was the nominee of the Democrats. Mr. Roosevelt was put in the hot by the Republicans. Mr. Hewitt won.

During his twenty-ninth and thirtieth years Mr. Roosevelt was engaged chiefly in literary work and in hunting big game. During this period of his career he passed many months in hunting the grizzly bears and other fierce wild animals of the west.

His thirty-first birthday found him a member of the United States civil service commission, to which he had been appointed by President Harrison. President Cleveland retained him in office and he continued to serve until 1893.

At thirty-seven Mr. Roosevelt was president of the New York board of police commissioners. Within a month after taking hold of his office he had become at once the best-hated and best-liked man in New York. He overhauled the police department and effectively stopped the police blackmail of saloon keepers. This work kept him busy for two years.

At thirty-nine Mr. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy. His fortieth birthday, following his strenuous campaign in the war with Spain found him a candidate on the Republican ticket for governor of New York. He was successful in the election and his forty-first birthday found him installed in the executive chair at Albany. At forty-two he was on the eve of his election to the vice-presidency of the United States.

His forty-third birthday he passed in the White House, having succeeded to the presidency the previous month through the death of Mr. McKinley. The question of Cuban reciprocity and the Schley controversy were occupying his attention.

His forty-fourth birthday was his second in the White House. Temporarily beaten on Cuban reciprocity he had held it aside and was beginning his fight against the trusts. He had just won his first great victory.

No good tailor will garb his patron in the clothes of a clown. Custom styles are always simple. They are not upholstered like cheap over-stuffed furniture. They are not filled with pads to take the place of that exquisite labor which the bench worker puts into cloth to produce permanence of form without showing his method. The good tailor works over every inch of a coat collar and coat breast and lapel. It takes thousands and thousands of hidden stitches to permanentize shape. The men who can produce such handiwork spend enough time to do justice to themselves. But once a custom garment is finished it is right—it stays right—it looks right, wears right and has the same perfect draping during the whole tenure of its use. Tailoring is a hand craft. It can no more be substituted than the work of the landscape painter or the creations of the portraiturist.

the settlement of the anthracite coal war, as the Republican candidate for president.

His forty-fifth birthday found him awaiting the result of the coup in Central America, the establishment of the Panama Republic, and in preparing for the extra session of congress which he had called to consider Cuban reciprocity.

His forty-sixth birthday he spent in the White House near the close of a presidential campaign which was to elect him by the greatest majority in history.

His forty-seventh birthday was spent aboard the battleship West Virginia, returning from a southern trip.

His forty-eighth birthday was spent in the White House preparing his general attack all along the line on the trusts by means of the department of justice.

His forty-ninth birthday found him laying the plans for the nomination of William H. Taft, his secretary of state.

For Vague Pains

Backache, Headache

and other pains, all over a woman's body, are often caused by some, not well understood, female disease.

No one can tell just where female trouble will affect you. It acts in a different way on different people. Hence, treating the symptoms gives but little benefit, and the most successful method may be said to be the treatment of the cause—which you may do, by taking Cardui.

What Cardui has done for other women, it ought surely to do for you. Mrs. M. E. Allred, of Hartford, Wash., writes: "Ever since I was 16 years old, I have suffered from female troubles. I had headache, backache and other troubles, every month. Some two years ago, I began to use Cardui, and since then I have had no backache, my other troubles have stopped, I don't need any medicine, and I am well."
